CPSC

The United States Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) is an independent agency of the United States Government. To provide better service in alerting the American people to unsafe, hazardous or defective products, a “one stop shop” for U.S. Government recalls, <http://www.recalls.gov>, has been created. Members of the public may report unsafe products to CPSC by using the platform.

The recall list is divided into seven categories: Consumer Products, Motor Vehicles, Boats, Food, Medicine, Cosmetics and Environmental Products. Generally, the recall is conducted voluntarily by the company under CPSC's Fast Track Recall programme. Fast Track recalls are initiated by firms who are committed to working with CPSC to quickly announce the recall and remedy to protect consumers.

Australian Product Safety System

The Australian product safety system is set up to maximise the safety of goods through the cooperation of consumers, businesses and agencies. This policy sets out the principles adopted by the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) for prioritising and addressing product safety risks.

Under the Australian Consumer Law, a responsible Minister can order a compulsory recall when there are hazards on the products. A voluntary recall could be conducted to remove the product from the marketplace when the suppliers become aware of unsafe or defective products.

The ACCC administers a national recalls system for recalls of specific and general consumer products, and publishes all product recalls on <https://www.productsafety.gov.au/recalls>.

Japan's Product Recall System

Under the Consumer Product Safety Act (消費生活用製品安全法 CPSCA), the Consumer Affairs Agency (消費者庁 CAA) enforces consumer protection laws and collects reports of serious product accidents. When such an accident is reported, the CAA notifies the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry (経済産業省 METI), which will initiate a recall.

Such accident cases are listed in the "Recall Information Website リコール情報サイト"

<https://www.recall.caa.go.jp/>.
